

The First Time I Danced With You

I caught your silhouette at the edge of my day

My heart learned a rhythm I could not betray

You laughed and the room forgot how to be small

My hands found the place where I fit after all

Your eyes said stay and I followed like a call

The first time I danced with you

Like the first time I saw you, like the first time I kissed you

It felt like the first time forever, and I'm drawn back to it

We built quiet languages in the spaces between breath

You taught me how to listen without needing words left

We broke like winter and mended like spring

I kept every heartbeat that learned the sound of your name

When music found us again, you turned always into everything

If time forgets the rest, it can't steal that first move

I'll hold that step like a secret that keeps me true

Every time my feet remember, my whole world rearranges

I go back to that first dance and feel the ground change

The first time I danced with you

Like the first time I saw you, like the first time I kissed you

It was the first time forever, and I'm falling back into it

The first time I danced with you

Like the first time I saw you, like the first time I kissed you

It was the first time forever, and I'm falling back into it

We built quiet languages in the spaces between breath

You taught me how to listen without needing words left

We broke like winter and mended like spring

I kept every heartbeat that learned the sound of your name

When music found us again, you turned always into everything

If time forgets the rest, it can't steal that first move

I'll hold that step like a secret that keeps me true

Every time my feet remember, my whole world rearranges

I go back to that first dance and feel the ground change

The first time I danced with you

Like the first time I saw you, like the first time I kissed you

It was the first time forever, and I'm falling back into it

The first time I danced with you

Like the first time I saw you, like the first time I kissed you

It was the first time forever, and I'm falling back into it
